GREEN BACK NOTES

• SAN JUAN UNION HIGH SCHOOL •

FOR THIS 1937 issue of Green-back Notes, we have chosen as our theme, Alma Mater. We have endeavored to record all phases of school life in a modern manner. We have given our best efforts to produce a book which will be worthy of our school. In the future, when San Juan's sons and daughters return to high school days through the golden haze of memory, may this Alma Mater year book revitalize their love for San Juan.

WE ENDED upon our high school career on the eleventh of September in the year nineteen hundred and thirty three. We were the usual bewildered timid Freshmen and for the first week we vainly evaded the Seniors. It was really the faculty who impressed upon us the fact that we were really San Juan Students. Soon assignments were showered upon us and grammar school was definitely in the past.

Our first notable recognition came when, in order to earn money for our pictures in the annual, we presented our George Washington Program. This allite was a huge success, made possible through the cooperation of our supreme Freshmen ticket salesmen. As our first year at San Juan drew to a close, we made our vows and promises to become bigger and better individuals, so that we would be a credit to our Alma Mater in the coming years. Thus we embarked upon our

This year proved very exciting for the members of the Sophomore Class. We sponsored our memorable "Sophomore Hop" which was carried out beautifully in a Spanish theme. Then came the Student Body Program. We were represented by a large cast of boys who characterized women in the play "Dress Reversal." Never shall that production be forgotten! With these afore-mentioned activities as highlights, we not too joyously closed the second chapter from our book of knowledge.

Our junior year was one which we shall look back upon with few regrets. Our "Junior Prom" served to heighten the festivity of the Christmas season. A huge revolving Christmas tree dominated the scene. The decorations were worthy and symbolic of this greatest of all holidays. In support of Greenback Notes we took our place with the other classes and presented a play "Stuffed Owls". In compliment to Leap Year the Juniors sponsored a "Leap Year" dance. This dance was a success financially and socially. We worked hard to produce the successful junior play entitled "Captain Apple and thirty-ox we climaxed our senior year with the Senior-Senior Banquet which took place in the Ulks Building. We were truly proud of our final tribute to the Seniors.

Now we come to our last chapter, the most important year of our high school training. Foremost among our Senior activities was the presentation of a Senior play, entitled "Baby Days." This play will be remembered long after the Seniors have gone. In January the entire student body cooperated in presenting the Gay Nineties Show sponsored by Greenback Notes. This affair was one of the biggest financial successes of the year. Many Senior boys and girls emerged triumphant in athletics. The boys were rewarded with all league honors in several sports and the gals have shown interest in the activities of the Girls' Block S. T. C. Club. One-half the membership is composed of Seniors. The Alum Mater theme was also carried out in the Senior Ball. This impressive occasion added another laurel to the Class of '57. We shall never forget the Junior-Senior Banquet at which we were the guests of honor.

As we look back upon our four hectic but pleasant years here, we are reminded of our four goal. How they ever stood for our foolishness is almost beyond comprehension! We here wish to pay tribute to their patience and never failing help. It has taken us four hard years of study sometimes worry and quite a lot of fun, to climb to our place in the history of our Alma Mater. We have accomplished our goal for the present, but commencement has come to us and we must look now to the task of taking our place in the world.

The activities of the Freshman Sophomore Society — that unfortunately was lost by the Freshmen. However from that time on we have been determined to give in everything we undertake a "get acquainted party". The Lent Duck Chase who proved himself to be an able and tireless worker.

The Sophomore class in 1936 started the year by giving the Freshmen strong competition at the Super. Later in the term every member, older and adviser of ours worked and showed their initiative giving the 'Sophomore Sup' a great success. The San Juan students showed their mutual appreciation of our work by coming and enjoying the Halloween Harvest Dance.

Robert Skidmore assumed the responsibility of President for this year of 1911. The theme of the Junior Prom was "Winter" and it was enjoyed by everyone.

The humor class and Spartan Staff co-operated in putting on a two-day affair. Many of the entertainers were ~~the~~ ^{the} students. We closed the social activities at our class by giving the ~~the~~ ^{the} annual ~~the~~ ^{the} banquet. Here the humorists entertained at the Elk's Club in Spokane.

IT SEEMS that all Sophomore girls are reputed to be ditties. When they enter the school as Freshmen they are very enthusiastic about letting themselves be known and so they work hard toward the goal. Then when they are Sophomores they are neither new to the school nor to the classmen. Therefore you sometimes hear the term "Silly Sophomore" in reference to us.

But we of the present Sophomore class not only took the Scampfire from the Freshmen as we did from the Sophomores last year, but we also gave them every line dance at the annual Sophomore Hop.

Almost every member of the class had something to do with the hop and our dance. Those who were artistically inclined planned for us the theme of our hop; other willing members helped to carry out this theme. But, but far from least what could we have done without our cooperative and willing advisers?

Now let me tell you about the entertainment of the student assembly period. On May 4 a clever satire of a radio program was presented by Miss Brockway one of our advisers. The program consisted of nothing but the voices of the performers. There were no sets, no lights, no costumes, no scenery, no the various announcers represented by members of the class. The students created the script which was read into an improvised loud speaker as well as the sound effects used for the program.

The Class of '36 is already making plans for its active junior year. We hope to sponsor the best Junior Prom and the best Junior Senior Banquet in the history of our Alma Mater.

We are now in our first year at San Juan High School. If one judged time by the sound of our numeral, our graduation days would seem very far away. But here we are at the end of our first year in our Alma Mater. In spite of the tough treatment we received from the upperclassmen, we have learned to love our school. Our interest in San Juan has been shown by our participation in many school activities.

We acquired suddenly—only after our week of initiation by previous upperclassmen—confidence in ourselves. The Freshman Class together with our advisors can be proud of the enthusiasm exhibited when we won the ticket selling contest for the first place in the school.

We are well on our way to winning membership in the Honor Society and several of our members give promise of winning the coveted Block S.

To the faculty and students who have kindly aided us in finding our rightful place in the school life of San Juan we express our appreciation.

When we came to high school we represented the seven grammar schools of the San Juan district. It was necessary for us to become acquainted with the boys and girls of our class as well as with our upperclassmen. The unity of our class which we have achieved through our Alma Mater has been worthwhile. To the faculty and students who have kindly aided us in finding our rightful place in the school life of San Juan we express our appreciation.

San Juan's Alumni Class of 1927

'My most pleasant memories whether of studies, sports or social activities are of the years when I attended San Juan.'

1937's Outstanding Athlete

Football

IN COACH WOERNER'S debut at San Juan we bowed to a superior Grass Valley team 33 to 0, mainly because of disadvantages in weight and inexperience.

The first league game found us handicapped by injuries. San Juan's only score was delayed till the last two minutes of the game, thus the score was San Juan 7- Elk Grove 25.

Outweighing us twenty-five pounds to the man, Roseville forfeited their six year record of undefeat when San Juan's first league game ended in San Juan 33- Roseville 0.

The Woerner system clicked for the second time bringing a victory for San Juan from Nevada City with a score of 10 to 0. Long passes and runs by Joe Calma were outstanding events.

A huskier Courtland team definitely ended San Juan's already damped title hopes. This game is always rated a tossup, but the Courtland boys had the upper hand scoring 10 points to our 0.

For the first time since the S. C. A. L. was organized six years ago San Juan ended her league season with no victories. Injuries to several Seniors previous to the game made it necessary for newer players to substitute. Thus we have the score San Juan 0- Galt 10.

In the final game of the 1926 season San Juan lost its Armistice Day game to Placerville by a score of 13 to 0. We held them to no score through the first half but in the second half our defense weakened.

Despite the fact that San Juan's football season was not very successful we are looking forward to a very good season next year with the following lettermen returning: Be Clover, Carl Heath and James Clespie at ends; Don Clover and Letoy Coleman at tackle; Bob Massey, Oliver Braden and Joe Campoy at guards; and Bob Fisher and Robert Skidmore at center. In the backfield we will have Don Pierce, Herb Bonham and Richard Wall. We were hampered last season by lack of spring practice but this year the squad is engaged in an extensive spring practice. When Coach Woerner mounted the roll a very large number turned out and much good material is being uncovered for next year's football season.

THE SAN JUAN Tennis Club was headed this year by Coach Woerner, advisor George M. resident Chris Dundee, vice president Harry Arend, secretary. The Club played its first on April 13 with Elk Grove High School at Elk Grove. San Juan came out victorious taking three sets of singles and three sets of doubles totaling a complete win in favor of San Juan. The players were singles Frank Kaerla, Joe Codua and Jack Fox; doubles Eugene Tavie, Earl Phillips, Jack Fox, Joe Codua, Joe Bradley and George Miller.

A return match was played with Elk Grove at San Juan on May 11. San Juan showed a poor taking all of the sets played, three and two doubles. The players of this match were other than of the previous match. They were singles Joe Codua, Frank Kaerla, Jack Fox, doubles Eugene Tavie, Earl Phillips, Art Miller, George Miller.

The matches this year have been delayed because of the late and many of them were canceled but it is the first time in the history of the Tennis Club that San Juan has played any school in the Sacramento County league.

It is expected at a later date to have tournaments with the El Dorado High School of Placerville. Many of the players of this year will be back again under the careful guidance of Coach Woerner they expect to continue the good work of this spring.

OUR FIRST league game with Elk Grove resulted in a great victory for the "A" team. This success gave our boys a good start for the season and aroused enthusiasm to go after the championship title this year. The boys used real teamwork in the game with Galt and won by a large score. Extra energy was put forth in our last league game with Courtland. They were defeated giving San Juan the second consecutive county championship title.

The "B" team started the season of league games with a victory over Elk Grove. Galt defeated our "B" team but this didn't make the boys lose faith. They played the game with Courtland and won by a large score. It was the "B's" off day when they played Folsom and lost by ten points.

The "C" team was not on top this year. They lost three of the league games to Elk Grove, Galt and Courtland but by a close score. When our boys met Folsom they completely bewildered our neighbors. The score was in our favor.

In the first game with L.R. Grove our slightly nervous boys were defeated by a score of 8 to 2. Our next game with Christian Brothers' School and Folsom we unfortunately lost.

The baseball season was brought to a successful close however when the Spartans met the Stanford team on the local diamond. After sixteen minutes of hard fought baseball our team came out on the end of a 13 to 12 score which was some consolation to the team.

the spirit of fighting for one's Alma Mater prevails. Girls do not have inter-scholastic teams but they do however have their individual class teams. Through these they work as four separate units, each fighting for its Alma Mater. Each girl feels that she is a part of a unit that is working to bring victory to her class and the victorious class in each sport likewise feels that it has added to the laurels of its Alma Mater.

It is through these inter-class games that the girls of San Juan are given the opportunity to expel that excess energy that is so characteristic of youth. Also they are taught many admirable qualities essential to the athlete of today namely cooperation, leadership, self-assurance, personal development, loyalty, and sportsmanship.

Furthermore there is still another achievement toward which the ambitious girl may strive that of being named the 'Outstanding Athlete' of the school. This is the highest honor that may be bestowed upon a Senior girl of San Juan. It means that she through her athletic achievements on innumerable teams and through her development of the above mentioned qualities has been selected by her athletic director as being the most outstanding figure in athletics during her four years in San Juan.

So it is with these thoughts in mind that the girls of San Juan turn out each year for the five major sports of Speedball, Volleyball, Basketball, Tennis, and Baseball.

SPEEDBALL was popular from the start. Each class had a large turnout and every girl fought for her position on the team. After several weeks of practice the teams were selected by Miss Lattin. The games resulted in winnings as follows: the Freshmen none; the Juniors one; the Seniors one; and the Sophomores three. The highlight of the sport was the fact that the Sophomores tied with the Juniors for the championship in the final game emerged victorious over their upperclassmen.

VOLLEYBALL was the second sport of the fall semester. For volleyball this year the girls had their own regulation volleyball court which added to the attraction of this sport. The large turnout compelled Miss Lattin to select eleven team members instead of the regulation eight except in the case of the Seniors who were obliged to play with only eight members. In the play-offs the winnings resulted as follows: the Freshmen one, the Sophomores two, the Juniors three, the Seniors three.

In January the girls brought back much vim and vigor to expel on basketball. The large turn out of the Sophomore and Junior classes necessitated the selection of a first and second team. Due to the lack of time these teams did not play off their games. The season resulted in game winnings as follows: Freshmen one, Sophomores two, Juniors one, and the Seniors three.

THIS IS THE YEAR a major sport for girls was an interscholastic sport. Miss Lattin chose eight girls who were the most interested and the most outstanding players. When the book went to press the only match that was played was with Lincoln Union High School which resulted in a tie score. We wish our team continued success for the next year.

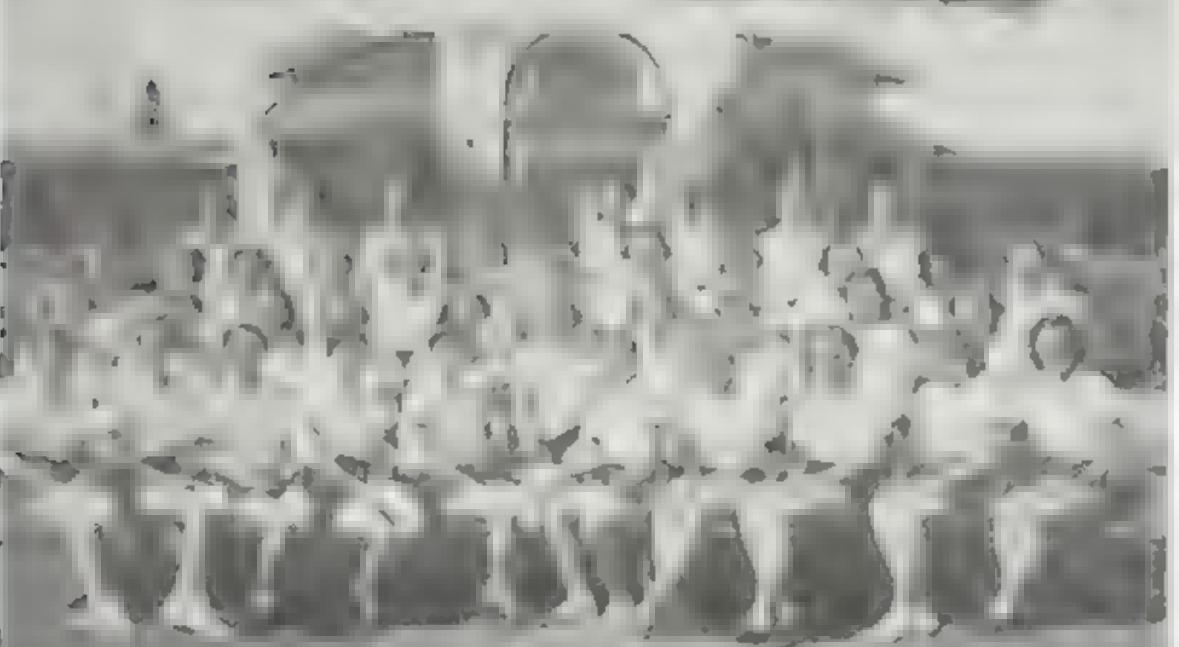

BASEBALL, the final sport on the girls' calendar, was scheduled after this book goes to press. May the best class win!

Quill and Scroll Society

The SAN JUAN Chapter of the Quill and Scroll International Honorary Journalists was granted a charter December 1, 1935. The organization is sponsored under the auspices of the Medill School of Journalism, Northern California University. After four years as an active club the Quill and Scroll has reached twenty-one. Many of these members are now graduates. Eligibility for membership is extended to the Spartan Staff and to several members of Greenback Notes Staff who can fulfill the necessary requirement.

Again this spring the Quill and Scroll sponsored its annual Press convention and banquet for those who are members of the Northern Division of the Northern California High School Press Association. Mr. Lawrence was president this year and will be for next year. San Juan was one of the largest present at the convention.

The officers for the year were: Mabel Bateman, president; Jeanne Stark, vice president; A. Mueller, secretary treasurer, while others for the second semester were Marian Cooley, president; Velma Bell, vice president; Mabel Bateman, secretary treasurer. Mr. R. C. Lawrence is the faculty advisor.

San Juan Spartans

THE FIFTH year of the Spartan publication is now rapidly drawing to a close with a very successful season. During this year the staff has sponsored many activities for the school's benefit.

Among these activities were distribution of Spartans the first day of school, trip to Chico for the Spartan staff, inc., thus sponsoring a card party, annual press meet and banquet, and several theatre parties.

The initial issue of the paper coming out in time to greet the old and new students under the direction of Mabel Baleman, editor. It contained messages of the president of the student body and the principal of the school.

In October we began plans for the annual trip to Chico. San Juan had held for several years the honor of having the largest delegation at the meeting of the Northern California High School Press.

The Spartan has been an active participant in the convention for four years taking honors each year. Mr. R. G. Lawrence, advisor of the Spartan, has been elected president of the association twice, and will plan the convention for the fall of 1957. He is responsible two years ago for a revision of the organization and enlarging of its interests.

During the fall trips were made to Sacramento to visit newspaper plants. State members enjoyed theatre parties after the inspection tours.

As a plan to make money, the Spartan combined with the junior class for a carnival and indoor circus. This was presented by a circus group in Sacramento. An elaborate program of entertainment was presented to audiences for two evenings.

Ping pong contests were sponsored during the spring semester, the winners not having been selected as this book went to press.

For the fourth year the Spartan sponsored the all league team selections for the Sacramento County Athletic League.

The Thespians

THE GROUP NUMBER 280 this year is headed by the following officers: president Phoebe Howard, secretary Virginia Pousant, adviser Edna Chatelet.

The National Thespian Honor Dramatic Society for High Schools was organized in the spring of 1928 by a group of students who felt that there was a great need for some kind of reward which could be given to high school students who had done meritorious work in dramatics.

The main aim of the National Thespian Society is to develop a spirit of active and intelligent interest in dramatics among boys and girls.

At the end of each school year an induction is held for incoming members who have fulfilled the necessary requirements. There is both an informal and a formal induction to introduce the new members to the real principles of the organization.

The members here at San Juan are Phoebe Howard, Virginia Pousant, Donald McKeown, Dave Duncan, Wilma Rhinehardt, Lowell Smiley, Jeanne Stark and Harry Arent.

It is hoped that next year our membership may be enlarged by new thespians. The present Junior class will make up the membership of this organization next year. We wish them success in all of their dramatic productions.

achieved scholastic success. It is the school that fosters and encourages students to make the most of their talents, and it is through the close contact with the faculty that those who desire may gradually toward the development of mind and character.

This year, as before, the Honor Scholarship society [] is share of support to student body class and club activities. Our members have also held important student body offices, class officers, and athletic positions.

Our financial program has been carried out this year as last by noon candy sales in the hall. Most of the proceeds are turned over to the scholarship loan fund which has been in force for a number of years and has enabled several worthy students to achieve their higher education. These scholarships are supported by all of the clubs and classes of the school. The Greenback Notes contributes its balance of proceeds derived from the sale of the year book.

In the fall four members attended the district meeting of the C. S. F. at Roseville. (Perhaps the nearness to home accounts for the lack of attendance, however a good time was reported.)

On April seventeenth Mr. Mooney our [] and seven members left early Saturday morning for the Chico High School to attend the annual meeting of the Northern California Regional Honor Scholarship Convention. This trip was looked forward to by the members with a great deal of anticipation because of the good time and the making of acquaintances of other students who will possibly be their friends at other institutions of []

Discussion groups, programs, and a banquet were enjoyed by those present.

The final activity of our club for the year was the annual banquet held in Sacramento.

A theatre party was enjoyed by the members after a very happy time around

Do You Remember?

Prize Story

PA NOW here's a picture. It shows us with old Baldy starting out for the folks for Thanksgiving.

Martha and John Stevens have drawn up their comfortable chairs to enjoy the firelight plays on the old woman's features, first on her neat white hair, then on her kind wrinkled face. It shines on the picture she hands her husband. John is an old man of wiry build, quite a little stooped at the shoulders. While he is looking at the picture his face lights up with a smile as he remembers old Baldy.

"She was a good old horse even if she did turn us over turkey and all" and he chuckled as he remembered how frightened Martha had been.

"And look here's a picture taken when you and I were engaged. Do you remember how the horse ran away with father and me? Do you remember ?"

And she begins to tell the story in a dreamy voice thinking of the days when they were young. Gradually as she remembers, her voice gathers power, and we travel back many years with them to a small country town.

In a large brown house before a huge blazing fire sat a man. He was a drowsing soul, old; but still full of spirit, determination and more than his share of stubbornness. At his feet his only daughter was sitting reading aloud the latest newspaper.

"President Harrison gave his history making, inaugural address today before him looking at her father from time to time to see if he were going to sleep. Soon his head began to nod. The warm fire and Martha's murmuring voice began to have their effect. Impatiently Martha read on. At the end of the long article she stopped for her father had finally fallen asleep.

Cautiously she put the paper aside and stood up. Glancing behind her at every crevice of the old house she finally reached the door and disappeared from the room. Upon leaving the house however Martha picked up her skirts and ran down the path through the orchard. Brown curls tossing and falling over her white forehead eyes sparkling her cheeks rosy with the exertion she reached the last bend in the path and stopped. Finally after gathering her scattered wits, her heart beating wildly, she went on. After she turned the last bend she saw him waiting for her under the large oak tree by the fence.

He was eager and excited and he asked "Good News?"

"He won't let us, John. He says we are too young."

"I was twenty last August" he answered.

"Yes, and I'll be seventeen in September."

"I think we are quite old enough to know our own minds" he said, for youth is always resentful of being called young or 'not old enough.'

"John," she said reproachfully.

"Oh I'm sorry Martha. There's more to it than just our being too young, isn't there? He doesn't like me, does he?"

"You know he doesn't like John else why would he tell you not to come to the house again?"

"Well I guess we will have to wait awhile," he said weakly.
"Father may wake soon John. I will have to go back to the house. He doesn't know I have gone."

She stood on tiptoe to receive his kiss and then hurried up the path to the house fearful lest her father should have awakened.

On the afternoon of the next day Martha was starting home from the little school where she taught eight children there "three 'es" when she saw a horse and buggy near the house.

"I'll help you Martha and I'll drive you home." "Has that young whipper snapper been seeing you lately?" her father asked suspiciously.

"Why no father," she answered truthfully. "He hasn't been to the house since you told him to stay away."

A dog came out from the house they were passing and nipped at the horse's tail. The horse ran on by chance following the road. But when the road turned the terrified animal ran on straight towards the cliff which lay about a mile farther on. It wasn't a very large cliff in fact it was just a steep bank over a river but the descent might mean death to the occupants of the buggy should they fall over it.

On the same afternoon John was riding toward the school house thinking he might get a glimpse of Martha. He stopped at the one room school and found that she had already gone. Greatly disappointed he mounted his horse again and rode down the road over which she had just passed. Far up the road he saw a small cloud of dust and then he recognized the buggy which belonged to Martha's father. His first impulse was to rush after it in order to see Martha. Suddenly he remembered he watched till they came to the last turn in the road. What was wrong? They didn't turn! They were headed straight for Tumble's Cliff. Why didn't they stop? His face turned white at the thought of what would happen if the horse didn't turn. Then he spurred his horse and rode like the wind to overtake them.

"Father stop! stop! We'll be killed!" screamed Martha clutching at the swaying buggy with both of her small hands.

Desperately her father pulled on the reins his face set his eyes staring straight before him. He was helpless and could do nothing. The horse had the bit between its teeth and all his strength couldn't stop her.

"Father! Someone's coming behind us. It looks like . . . it is John. Oh pray God he will overtake us in time! Oh Father! I can't look!"

Slowly John gained on them. It seemed eternity to him before he could bring the horse to a standstill. The buggy stopped quite still exhausted from the run. Martha fatigued and overtired by excitement fainted.

"Guess what Father?" Martha asked hoping for the best yet fearful of disappointment.

"Well I guess if you're willin' to wait a year or two you can get married, that is if you still want him."

"If I still count him", and jumping up she threw her arms around her father's neck and kissed him happily. "I think you're a perfect darling!"

The fire had died down to coals and the room had become cold as Martha completed her dreams. The cat had long since given up all hope of having the fire rekindled and had crept closer to absorb the last lingering heat. In the quiet room nothing could be heard but the ticking of the clock.

It was Martha who broke the stillness. "John", she said. "Do you remember what day tomorrow is?"

"It's Sunday I think" the old man answered.

"Yes it is Sunday but somethin' else too. Please try to remember."

"Well maybe it's your birthday or one of the children's or maybe it's mine."

"Oh John! I guess I'll have to tell you. You'll be sorry you had forgotten me."

"Well so it is", he said and then. "We have come a long way haven't we Martha?"

"Yes a long way" answered Martha and their eyes met as they smiled happily.

HONORABLE MENTION

I SEE THE new neighbors next door have a youngster", announced Mr. Knight in an attempt to start a conversation when he sat down to dinner.

"Yes" answered his wife uninterestedly as she seated herself opposite him. Her husband had struck the wrong chord and immediately Mrs. Knight settled into silent gloom.

Not daunted by her manner Mr. Knight made a second attempt at conversation.

"I saw the little chap looking out the front window as I came home. He's a sunny boy."

Mr. Knight fancied he saw hidden tears behind the hard look in his wife's eyes as she asserted abruptly, "Well, he'd better stay at home. I can't be bothered with other people's children."

"I could only get her interested in children get her to drop that hardness and become yielding and sweet and happy as she once was thought Mr. Knight. He said no more however. Through experience he had learned when to stop.

Danny a bright little fellow had brought sunshine into their home for five years. Since his death ten years ago Mrs. Knight had gradually settled into a sad icy shell. Now as she sat before the fire she seemed to be recalling each incident of that fatal afternoon. She remembered how she had called frantically, "Danny, Danny!" thinking he might be playing in the street.

As she reached the front door her son's playmate shouted in his baby voice "Hurry! Get the ball Danny!"

Danny ran beneath the wheels of a car to save the bright red ball from being crushed.

Today as her cake in the oven had slowly burnt to a crisp so had Mrs. Knight's fate of her first child? With this fear she entombed her motherhood, likewise her conviction that God was good.

She was unresponsive to her husband as he told her goodbye the next morning and she hurried about the household duties in her usual mechanical manner.

She had just placed the last tin of cookies in the oven when the kitchen door opened softly. "Doo' mornin'" said her small visitor. Mrs. Knight turned to the five year old boy as he stood in the doorway. Before she could answer however the

and said, "Now run in."

"Jimmy!" A voice was heard calling energetically from next door.

"Oh, muver's calling me, dress I better do!" With these words he scampered back.

Mrs. Knight stood in the doorway and followed the child with eyes slightly softened till he was hidden behind the hedge in his own yard.

Jimmy repeated his visit next morning. Peering into the kitchen cheerfully he called, "Doo' mornin'?"

"Good mornin' Jimmy," replied his neighbor in a tone of voice that was slightly kinder than it had been yesterday morning. She noticed his glancing about the room. "Here you are," she said as she produced the cookie.

Jimmy crunched the crisp confection with satisfaction. Looking rather quizzically at Mrs. Knight he asked, "Don't you have a boy or girl I could play with?"

"No, no boy or girl," answered his new acquaintance. "Here's another cookie. Now run along." Her tone lost the foreign touch of friendliness.

"Doo' bye" and Jimmy disappeared.

Why thought Mrs. Knight must a child remind me of the past I want to forget?" — one almost cynical plunged into her duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight had just seated themselves at the dinner table that evening when Jimmy reappeared.

"Hello" he greeted in his sunny voice.

"Well, if it isn't the fellow I saw in the front window next door! Hello!" said Mr. Knight cheerfully. "Here have a chat and let's get acquainted."

Jimmy sat down in the chair near Mr. Knight. Suddenly however he asked, "May I sit nearest to half of you?"

Even Mrs. Knight could not help but smile however slightly at this remark.

Jimmy moved the chair to the vacant side of the table 'nearest both of them.'

"I have a cookie, Jimmy?" Mrs. Knight offered.

The little towhead accepted eagerly but politely.

"So your name is Jimmy?" asked Mr. Knight. He glanced questioningly at his wife. "We are Mr. and Mrs. Knight."

There was a brief pause after which Jimmy said, "This many mornings" and he held up two fingers. "I came to see Mrs. Knight. She gave me cookies."

Mr. Knight dared not look at his wife but he felt closer to her than he had for years. "Do you like cookies pretty well, Jimmy?" he questioned.

"Uh um, but muver only gives 'em to me after I eat my breakens' an' lunch an' dinner."

Mr. Knight smiled. "Then she might spank us for giving them to you."

"Oh no," Jimmy assuted, "Muver's very good".

At this moment there was a knock at the back door.

As Mrs. Knight opened the door she saw a young woman standing in the semi-darkness. "How do you do" she said.

"How do you do. I'm Mrs. Dorian, your new neighbor."

"Will you come in?" asked Mrs. Knight conventionally.

"Thank you, I shall. I suppose my infant is here?"

Jimmy looked a little bit guilty as his mother entered the room.

"I'm very sorry if Jimmy has annoyed you people," Mrs. Dorian apologized. "I try to keep track of him."

"Well, I'm sure he isn't any trouble at all," responded Mr. Knight. "Jimmy and I are going to get acquainted properly." He smiled at the small boy.

"It won't take you long to get acquainted if you have a cookie jar around," Mrs.
Dorian informed pleasantly.

At the door Mrs. Knight ventured to say, "You must come again some afternoon.
This second invitation was more real than conventional.

Jimmy was persistent with his visits. Each day when he had gone the aspect of the Knight household suffered more for his departure. His sweet mannerisms stirred

Mrs. Knight.

Mrs. Dorian, no less sunny than her youngster had been friendly in spite of Mrs.
Knight's cold attitude.

One afternoon Mrs. Dorian invited her to go shopping. Mrs. Knight had no reason to refuse, and she chose not to be outright rude and unsociable. So the two women and Jimmy took a street car to the business center of town. The car line ran past the city orphanage, and a large sign outside the building attracted Mrs. Knight's attention.
It read 'Visitors' Day.'

While Mrs. Dorian was busy shopping her neighbor kept an eye on Jimmy who was very alert and sensitive to the incidents and people about him. Soon a lady with a small boy and girl came into the store.

"Are they a brother and sister?" Jimmy asked longingly.

"They look alike, Jimmy. They must be brother and sister. As Mrs. Knight as he crunched the cookie on that second morning of their acquaintance, "Don't you have a boy or girl I could play with?"

Two weeks passed during which Jimmy had been old enough to catch the perception, would have seen that his friend was waiting for something to happen. She had been.

Then one morning Mrs. Knight asked, "How would you like a boy your size to play with?"

"Oh, I would just love him to death!" Jimmy confessed enthusiastically.

"Come in here," his friend smilingly requested. The youngster followed Mrs.
Knight into the living room and saw, seated on the floor before the fire, a boy his own size with blue eyes and cottontop.

"Michael, this is Jimmy," Mrs. Knight said. "He lives next door. You two fellows must be good friends."

Jimmy stared at Michael for a moment with eyes like saucers. Then he ran and hugged the newcomer. "Oh doodle you can be my brother can't you Mike?"

Mrs. Knight's eyes lost the last trace of hardness as they filled with tears. She had just witnessed the forming of a mutual faith, a friendship, a love, for the small boys one friend right there.

Mike was in bed and his foster parents were sitting before the fire. Mrs. Knight moved from her chair to her husband's footstool. A mellow light illuminated her whole face as she looked up into the face of her husband. The love, beautiful and tender that radiated from her eyes was the atonement for the years of wretchedness.

It took a child to bring back the faith that had vanished, the love that was lost.

Caught in a Snow Storm

Pete Story

IT WAS WINTER. The country surrounding the small town of Train lay under six feet of snow. Trapping had been exceptionally good but because of heavy snow, it had to be abandoned until the weather cleared up. Thus it was that Jack, a sturdy young lad of seventeen, with his companion Shep, was out gathering in all his traps.

Snow had been falling lightly all day but about two in the afternoon a real snow storm began. Jack had to leave his traps and return home. He had lost his way and didn't have the slightest notion where he was, although he had been in the same general region many times before. He had arrived there. His feet were numb by this time and his legs ached. He knew that he did not dare go out into that storm again and risk the chance of losing himself in the blizzard. He had to get home. It was dark now and he could not see far ahead. Although it was about four miles home Shep would go. He wrote a note and tied it onto his faithful dog's collar.

"Home! Shep! home! Go home. Understand Shep! home!" Shep glanced wistfully at his master and then dashed out into the storm. Cold and exhausted Jack fell to the floor.

Shep had a hard time picking his way among all the projecting rocks. There were many places that, although blanketed by the snow, were treacherous once one stepped on them. When he had gone about a mile the blizzard became more furious. He had to fight his way. His eyes became red and sore from the biting cold snow. "On home," he thought. "I must get home." In the darkness he did not see a deep gorge that lay just ahead of him. Down he plunged—ten feet onto the sharp rocks that lay on the bottom.

Six hours later back at Jack's home, his father and mother were becoming alarmed at the long absence of their son.

"He should be back here by now. I knew we shouldn't have let him go trapping on a day like this and with the blizzard raging. Listen! What was that noise? It sounded like a dog scratching on the door. Maybe it's Shep."

Going to the door Jack's father looked upon the form of a dog partly frozen and bleeding. He recognized it as Shep. He noticed the note tied onto Shep's collar. Quickly he tore it off and read it. Immediately he took action. He summoned his wife to take care of the dog while he went to the village for help.

A half hour later four men, among them a doctor, braved the fury of the storm and started out toward that little cabin four miles out on the most dangerous of trails. They must hurry! The boy's life depended upon their quick action. Onward they pressed. Seven hours later they reached the small cabin.

Entering the cabin they saw the prostrated form of Jack on the floor. After a quick examination the doctor gave his verdict "Frozen feet. Not badly frozen but not to be trifled with." The men did everything within their power to relieve the boy's pain and to prevent gangrene from setting in.

The next morning around nine o'clock four tired men carrying the limp form of a boy, arrived in the small settlement. From there Jack was rushed to a hospital fifty miles away where he received the best of care. His feet were not seriously frozen and with the good care he received there he was able to be back at his home within the space of three weeks.

At last the happy day of home-coming arrived. He walked joyously down the path in his yard. But suddenly his gaze was drawn to a small grave beneath a towering pine. At the head of the grave was a small board marker. The inscription read:

A friend in need
His deed is done
He saved a life—
His rest is won
Shep."

A Rash Story

Honorabile Mention

IT WAS the week before Christmas and everything was in a rush at the Newport High School.

The students at Newport naturally looked up to her, but they thought she was a bit clumsy.

heard even by the teacher. Lulu sounds sour when she sings her soprano song.

As Emily ran embarrassed from the stage in the opposite direction from the other characters she bumped into every one else. The result was a grand混up; some even fell off the crowded stage. But Lulu screamed and the attention was turned to her. While making sure she was all right, they heard a low moan from the orchestra pit. Turning, they saw Emily sprawled among the broken drums and turned-up chairs. The practice ended for that day in a turmoil.

"I gave my own wrist watch to the leading lady in the play and you know Bill how I've always wanted to have a dozen wrist watches."

On Friday Miss Willis, the director of the play, assigned most of the cast to decorate the auditorium with holly and festoons. While Lulu was behind the curtain practicing her songs, Emily was on top of a ladder nailing up a wreath. As Miss Willis on top of the teacher's head had not Emily grabbed for it and slipped. She landed

"I'm clumsy," she said, "but I'm not clumsy."

After Miss Willis had passed by, Emily said under her breath, "I think maybe I should have let the hammer lie."

and said, "Emily, you look like you could stand an ice cream soda right now."

Fresh frozen strawberries were advertised for sale. Of course these cold storage free fruits were sky high, but in the end Emily's father, won over by her persuasion, bought her the strawberries.

The day of the play was an exciting one as last minute preparations were being completed by the end of the day. Lulu the leading lady did not have all her energy for that night. This made Emily think she was a "sissy" and couldn't take it. As Emily was leaving the auditorium for the day she said "If I were leading lady I would come and help as much as possible."

After Emily reached home her mother said she didn't look as though she felt well but Emily said she felt perfectly all right. It was half an hour before the play time when one of the girls in the chorus turned to Emily and said "Why Em you have little red spots all over you!" Lulu who was standing near turned and looked at Emily. The next minute she was in a state of uproar. Miss Willis coming along asked "My child you must go on in a few moments. What is the matter with you?"

"my dear the show must go on", Miss Willis said and she tried to make the excited girl calm down.

After much yelling and explaining Lulu's mother got the girl out to the car. Just as Lulu went out the door she said to Miss Willis "All you care about is the program and you wouldn't care if I got the measles and injured my voice. You know it would ruin it."

With excitement. To Miss Willis she said "I can go on for Lulu if you want me to. I've been understudying for Lulu and I know her part."

"Emily come into the dressing room, I want to talk to you first," said Miss Willis. When they came out you could see that Miss Willis was relieved and she had accepted Emily's offer. After the show was over she said Emily's acting was much better than Lulu could have done. Emily was being praised by the whole cast for her sportsmanship.

When Mr. Manners got up to give the wrist watch to the leading lady he exclaimed "So great was Emily's surprise that she could not accept the reward with a fitting 'thank you' speech."

That night after Emily was home her father asked her about the measles. Emily laughed and said "You know those strawberries you bought me well every time I eat them they give me a rash but it never lasts long."

The Sail Boat

From the top of the hill I can see A magnificent vessel as of a sail boat far out on the sea
Which appears so unsteady and frail

Smile and Fix Wings

When fears come crowding in
And joy goes sailing out
Keep on smiling, don't give up

When the world is dark and dreary
— joy of life is gone
Smile and the world will turn
As happy as the dawn!

Music

It is not only the emotions that we get from music, but also harmonies of color, and the sense of rhythm that intangible thing called beauty. Music gives us those strong and beautiful feelings of humanity which have led civilization and made man more than the animal. Music gives us the sense of man's greatness and his eternal destiny. It lifts the pettiness of life to sublimity and gives health. Without true appreciation of music we cannot call ourselves real human beings. It is only through music that we can realize the greatness of men and our own possibilities.

THE SAN JUAN band under the direction of Mr. Maddox Hogan has idly by members this year. They have lent much enthusiasm to our athletic contests in football, basketball and baseball at neighboring schools as well as at home. They also added greatly to the Indoor Circus and Carnival sponsored by the Spartan Staff and humor class on February eleventh and twelfth with a number of lively numbers. The band entered the State Band Competition in San Francisco on May 13th.

A German Band was organized this year by Dick Haze. They played for the City Ninth Program on January twenty-eighth and for the Indoor Circus. The band was composed of the following boys: Norman Jones, clarinet; Lloyd Brown, clarinet; Robert Little, trumpet; Edgardo Boletti, trumpet; Kenneth Evans, trombone; Dick Haze, bass.

The String Quartet which added beauty to the Color Play by entering between the scenes this year. The members of the quartet were Thelma Horn, first violin; Shirley Ross, second violin; Shirley Ross, cello; Nadine Galt, piano.

Margaret Hechinger, a humor student, played the flute in the All Western States Band at the Music Conference in San Francisco during the spring vacation.

There was a Music Festival on May seventh. The following students represented San Juan in the band and orchestra: Shirley Ross, cello; Norma Jones and Rose Barber, clarinet; Margaret Hechinger, violin; Marion Wallner, flute; Kenneth Evans, trombone; Donald La Follette, banjo. Dick Haze, bass.

May seventh was the set for the San Joaquin Music Festival. It was a slightly different type this year. Competition between the various orchestras and bands of the grammar schools of the district. A cup was awarded to the winning group by Mr. Hogan.

Drama

The drama class

class consisted only of Seniors. At the beginning of the year, the students studied stage ability, stage terminology and stage actors.

During the second semester the perfection of the Senior play was the main concern and on April sixteenth "Balmy Days" or "The Strategy of Grandma Gates", a comedy in five scenes by George Milton Savage was successfully presented.

The cast included

Harry Arend	Gerald Barker
Bevere Davis	Jack Casten
Whitney Kennedy	Theodore Wallace
Virginia Pocant	Mildred Gates
Donald McKeown	Peter Gates
Elliott Hampton	Phyllis Gates
Carol N... Evelyn Dull	C. Gates
Eleanor Tomich	Mary Gates
Ila Mae Shumate	—
Lowell Smiley	Oglethorpe Wilston
Annie Mueller	Mrs. Oglethorpe Wilston
Merton Caskey	Lebba Wilston
Dave Duncan	Michael Hadley
Constance Van Maten	Sabie Hernandez
Charles Edgett	First Deputy
George Miller	Second Deputy

Another presentation of dramatic ability was the "Gay Nineties" program, sponsored by the Greenback Notes staff. This program was good entertainment and a financial success.

Society

FRESHMAN RECEPTION

The Freshmen were given a formal Reception on September 18. The Freshmen belonging to each district marched with banners across the stage and down to their place in the audience. The visitors were entertained by many talented students with vocal solos, instrumental numbers, dancing and speeches.

SOPHOMORE FEST

Even though the game with Nevada City was lost on October 25, the Spartans still could enjoy a good football dance. The gym was decorated with "S. J. S." from the ceiling and with a large Spartan head on the north wall of the gym. The Sophomores proved their ability by the success of this dance.

JUNIOR PROM

A "Winter Scene" was chosen for the theme of our Junior Prom held on the evening of December 20. Large flakes of snow hung from the ceiling and the orchestra was almost hidden in snow giving our auditorium a lovely winter background. As the guests entered the room, each was presented with a tiny snowman.

SENIOR BALL

"Coronation" was the theme of the Senior Ball given on April 25. The color scheme was purple and gold with crowns hanging from the ceiling. A huge crown was at the north end of the gym over the orchestra and the thrones, blushed with flowers, were on the stage. The steps leading to the throne were covered with the royal purple.

The spectacular event of the evening was the coronation of King Richard (Dickson) and Queen Connie (Van Maren). Each received as a gift an order for a copy of Greenback Notes with his name to be engraved upon the cover.

JUNIOR SENIOR BANQUET

Our Junior Senior Banquet was held this year at the Ibs Club in Sacramento on the evening of May 15. To follow the theme of our year book, the Spartan tradition was used as the keynote of the banquet. The color scheme was carried out in red and white with Spartan shields for favors and place cards. A huge shield upon which was the silhouette of a Spartan's head was placed above the speaker's table. The entire shield was a creation of red and white roses. The speeches of the evening were based on the Spartan government planned to correspond to our school government.

This year's Junior Senior Banquet was a fitting close to San Juan's social calendar.

Diary '36-'37

By CAL N. DAW

- What fun! I helped Mr. Armstrong register the Freshmen today.
There goes the goal! I attended assembly at 8:00 A. M. The Spartan made its first appearance. Look out Freshies!

October

- I didn't see but one Freshman. Oh well, classes started anyhow.
Did you ever see a mud man walking? Well, I did. It was at the Freshman Sophomore Stampede.
Orbie Howard was chosen as editor and Donald McKeown was chosen as associate editor of what we hope will be the most wonderful annual ever published by San Juan.
I see ribbons? Mr. Price and other members of the faculty presented teams and rooms of ribbons in assembly.
Went to the Freshman Reception tonight. The class of 1930 has a lot of talented girls.
20. Don McKeown and his two assistants shouted "Let's give San Juan six!" Too bad we lost the football game to Grass Valley.

October

21. That's the way, Harry. He obtained our first aid. A good beginning for business manager.
22. I thought I saw Joe Broadley's knees shake when he called our first student body meeting to order.
23. Shucks! How could we expect to beat Elk Grove when Conch's brother was playing on the opponent's team?
For the first faculty program Miss Stephenson obtained Mr. Bell to speak on men bandaging. He spoke on our opportunities instead.
25. No wonder we had a swell time at the Sophomore Hop tonight, after all, didn't we beat Nevada City and wasn't football the theme?
26. We were downed by the Courtland Butterflies today.
29 and 30. I hear there is a press convention at Chico. Last year's annual placed second only to Chico in the contest.

November

6. Galt didn't treat us very nicely when we visited them. We didn't even make a touchdown. It must have been because of our first report cards.
11. Armistice day and our football team goes to Placerville. I think the mountain air was too much for San Juan gridiron stars.
13. Friday the thirteenth and here comes our magic man under the auspices of the Block S. J. girls'. I wonder where he found all of the eggs.
20. Of course Cal was victorious.
21. That doesn't look like me! I received my first proofs for my Senior pictures and then planned to go to the Junior Prom. Grrr.
25-28. Oh boy! The teachers go to school while we have vacation. Then came the turkey day.

December

- Heh, heh! What a reception. I don't know whether I would care to enter the Big Block S. J. Society or not.
8. that Chili Con Carne was good! There are some good cooks on the annual.
After that I couldn't help but enjoy the Freshman Program.
11. Wait until I catch Ed Moulton. He will learn to keep those terrible odors in the lab.

17. I wonder who filled Joe Broadley's fountain pen with mercury! He wants a new pen point.
18. The Home Economics Club distributed food and clothing to the needy
21. Another vacation - This time for two weeks. Merry Christmas!

January

6. Back to the daily grind - I broke my New Year's resolution.
8. My pen almost went dry signing election petitions today.
13. Well boys, I guess we aren't invited to the girls' Hi-jinks.
22. Our 'A' team cleaned Elk Grove tonight. We have a swell basketball team even though our football team wasn't so wonderful.
26. Clark went the camera. More animal pictures were taken.
28. "I gotcha that time," was our hero's reply as he struck down the villainous villain in the good old fashioned melodrama of the "Gay Nineties" program.
29. The Spartan overcomes the Butterfly in a spectacular basketball game. The report cards must have been better this time.

February

2. Al Uomini leaves for Santa High and Harry Arend takes his place as business manager.
- 11 and 12. We have acrobats in San Juan! Did you attend the humor Concert?
22. Phoebe Howard, who has been absent because of an accident, visited school today.
25. The Girls' Block S. I held their initiation today.
25. Dean H. E. Tyler of Santa J. C. spoke on "How to Select Your Vocation" at the Senior assembly today.

March

1. Inter-sectional champs meet. The Autumn 'A's defeat San Juan.
2. "Rain, rain go away and come again some other day." We couldn't play baseball with Elk Grove because of old man weather.
- 10 and 20. Spring vacation! I wish we had another Easter before the end of school.

April

12. Our "wise guys" took part in the C. S. F. Convention at Chico. San Juan won the sweepstakes award in the Agricultural Judging contest at Davis.
23. Royalty visits the Senior Ball - King Dick Dickson and Queen Constance Van Mater reigned supreme. Coronation theme - Best dance of the year, I think.
24. The large band at our annual Education Night program.
27. The Girls' League entertained our mothers at a tea in fair style today, a feature was the fashion show.
13. The dances are turned this year. We as seniors are entertained by the Juniors at a large banquet.
15. I hope the Band wins the contest in San Francisco.
21. There's music in my ears. Did you enjoy the music festival?
25. I was honored along with the rest of the Seniors at the Baccalaureate Service this evening. Dr. Kitcher spoke.
2. Commencement - Goodbye to Alma Mater San Juan! Goodbye classmate ballo world!

Prophecy

I have a strange vision, and it might prove wise
To read what I've written and get a surprise
I see in my crystal the future fate of Sam Jim's passing Seniors whom we dearly love.

HARRY AREND always wanted a bachelor to be
— it now FREDA HAUSER is his wife, you see
Professor ART SPERS has a college for teachers
Where instead of bright apples his students bring peaches. (catch?)

WARREN REESE and KEN MASTART are designers, you know
With their partner GORDON CAIL they bring in the dough
LISI CADONS and LO BOBSBERRY have fashionable hat shops
Where ANNIE MUNTER is a model, and is she the "topic"!

PAT BURKE our hero coaches football at Yale
— EUGARDO BERTH milks cows for his kohle
While JOE MURRAY BROADLEY a great senator sits
MABEL BATMAN is scouting for newspaper hits.

LOR BOERS and BILL BRUNCKE are farmers, you know
And DOT GRAVES still flirts with BOB DAVIS her beau
The beautiful voice of ISIDORE FRY
Has now found its place in radio's eye.

BILL and JOHN SCHULZ own a modern garage
And explorer WINSTON KENNEDY free in a cottage
CERO COHEN is now a writer of fame
And to Miss CHARLES ROGERS she has just changed her name.

ANN OEST and LOIS WILDERBERGER compete with dress shops
While PEONY LATOR stays home and her kitchen floor sweeps
That new housewife is FRANCES A. —————
And MARY ASTLE is her maid.

CAROL NERBURG an old maid—By her clothes line
You see she has definitely changed her mind
CYRIL HOSMER just broke Samry's record in flying
And VERNON CABLE specializes in "Model T" buying

Coming fashions will soon be broadcasted by TINA
PIPER SUTTER is a stenographer who calls her boss "Billy".
ELIXOR and FRANCES MILLER are just very, very happy
And VERA GRAHAM's new Rousseau is really quite snappy.

MARYN GILMORE and ALICE GLOVER are buyers at Hale's,
While CHRIS DUDEK and ROSECR. WATTS deliver the mails
JOT and TONY CODINA are very well known
Their basketball records would make a rival team.

DON McKEOWN and DICK DICKSON in business are zealous
And SISTER ROSS has won fame as a very adept cellist
IRENE RYTKOEN has made the best of her charm
For her new school of poise has caused pleasant alarm.

IVAN McELROY is in baseball and has just made a strike,
And not with a bat but just sitting down like
DAVID KENYON and ED MORRISON are "docs" with their pills
And if one can't the other can cure ills

"The Green Light" must have been RALPH RICKETT's inspiration
For he's living with guinea pigs at a scientific station
BOB SMITH assists in this chosen profession,
And a great knowledge of serums is in their possession

ALLEN LASCHUTZ to great fame has risen,
For his appointment to warden at San Quentin Prison
NANCY WILSON and BOB LUCAS are women in white
Who in an invalid's clinic are working all night

The library boasts ARDRIA WALTERS's sweet smile,
And to HARRIS HOWARD's voice the radio we dial
JEANNE WORTMAN and VERA DORR are secretaries in glasses
To a great politician who pleads with the masses,

Tilling the fields honest sweat on their brow
SARAH ANN and BERNARD GREEN are good farmers now
ELIZABETH JOHNS and BOYER DAVIS are diesel engineers
MARIE PETERS drives their stunt cars just for wild cheers

Politics called VERA BAILY and MARJORIE BRIGGS
Who are in Washington, D. C., filling senator's chairs
FRANKLIN SHIFFRIN and WAYNE MURRAY as attorneys win trials
While EVANGELINE DORR at a switchboard still smiles

With movies on the ceiling for her patients to see
VIRGINIA PRUITT pulls teeth painlessly
MARIAN CASKEY for a newspaper reports on society
And she writes a small column on the rules of propriety

While DALE DUNCAN and LEWIS OWENS are planting their grain
INA MAR is a stewardess on a transatlantic plane
At the VAN MARSH Clinic the head nurse is COXIE
While our MARGARET STURT keeps their books for big money

I see ELEANOR and QUINTIN TOSCANI much to my surprise
For the sake of biology chasing big butterflies
JOANIE PINE with enthusiasm watched this one day
And set it to music for Jack Benny to play

RICHARD DAVIES just published PHOENIX HOWARD's new play
And WALLACE LEUNG decided in school he'd stay
GEORGE MILLER now works in competition to ZELLER
And makes bigger milkshakes for FAY JAY "gals and fellers."

WILMA RUMMELSTUH and JACK WINN are really not gone
For they're teaching Chem. and History back at SAN JULIA HILLING and GRADY HARPER list faces for cash
While WILLIAMSON's spotted cows spring dusties do mash

J. P. ECKERSON on a motorcycle just wizzed by While crowds cheer and girl friends whisper "My My!"
My vision is fading so I'm afraid that is all
So if you wish more I'll be within call

In Appreciation

To the Advertisers of Greenback Notes.

You have made our book possible. Without your kindly cooperation and your spirit of friendship, we would have lost courage. We sincerely hope that you will be repaid for your courtesy in buying our ads by the continued support of the seven communities which San Juan represents. We the staff thank you for your generous support in the publishing of our Alma Mater issue.

To Mr. EVERETT PETERSON of the Sacramento Bee Engraving Department

Your friendship and your liberal suggestions in planning our book have been invaluable. We thank you for your personal interest in the creation of our best efforts. It was a sincere pleasure to work with you.

To Mr. ROSENSTEEL of the Rosensteel Printing Company Stockton; to Mr. MUNNIXON and the Hodson Studio; to Mr. HERBERT SIVERS of Silvius and Schoenbäcker Bookbinders

We are grateful to you for your excellent service. The high quality of your work has made our book what we have desired.

Dear Mr. Monroe,
I have remembered your answer to your visitors and put it in my pocket, and a heavy bag, you will not much mind it, though I have never seen it except in the hands of a soldier, I must close,
Yours very truly
